1. The type of auxiliary aid or service necessary to ensure effective communication shall vary depending on the needs of the individual with a disability and the length or complexity of the communication.
2. In determining the type of auxiliary aid or service necessary, ADOT shall give primary consideration to the request of the individual with a disability.

B. Sign Language Interpreters

1. ADOT programs, services, or activities shall provide qualified sign language interpreters to individuals who are deaf or hard of hearing, who use sign language to communicate, if necessary to communicate effectively with an ADOT program, service, or activity. 2. In some circumstances, ADOT employees may be able to communicate effectively with a deaf or hard of hearing individual during simple interactions with written notes. For more lengthy and complex interactions, such as interviews to determine eligibility for services, interviews to determine an individual's needs (such as those used to develop service), conciliation meetings, and administrative hearings, writing notes is not an effective means of communication and shall not be used.

2.13 UNDUE FINANCIAL OR ADMINISTRATIVE BURDEN

When a fundamental alteration, undue financial or administrative burden occurs to the program, service, or activity by providing program access, ADOT shall take such action to provide program access that does not result in a fundamental alteration or result in an undue financial or administrative burden. Any denial of request for access, an auxiliary aid or service or reasonable modification of policy due to a finding of fundamental alteration or undue burden shall be in writing with the reason for denial provided by the responsible division to the Civil Rights Office and ADA Coordinator. ADOT may ensure program access by:

1. Providing services, activities, and programs in facilities that are accessible to individuals with disabilities.
2. Transferring programs, services, and activities from any building that becomes temporarily or permanently inaccessible to an alternate location that is accessible.
3. Modifying, if reasonable, the structure of a facility to ensure that individuals with disabilities have access to programs, services, and activities.

2.16 MONITORING

ADOT programs, services, or activities shall develop a system for monitoring compliance with the ADA in ADOT or contracted programs, services and activities. Monitoring shall take place on a regular and ongoing basis, including, but not limited to:

- A. A review of a sample of individual case records of individuals with disabilities to determine whether disabilities were identified, modification requests recorded, and modifications provided in a timely fashion;
